A PROUD DAY FOR YONKERS. ITS STREETS BRIGHT WITH FIRE HEL-

METS AND PRETTY GIRLS. Long and Creditable Procession Reviewed by Mayer Bell, and Pollowed by Numer-ous Banquets—The Air Filled with Music. The weather did not do just the fair thing by the firemen who met, for a grand parade in nkers yesterday. It didn't quite rain during he parade, but it wanted to so badly that the e was practically the same, and then ow-down, gummy kind of mud it was, and it marched through, as well as those which re not, with the most cynical disregard to the spick and span shiny boots the boys all n when they got up in the morning. But then firemen don't mind the weather, use it wouldn't do in their business to carry mbrellas and be dainty about a little splash-A grand fireman's parade of twenty difom the towns round about, was fixed a long rade took place, and a fine parade it and a beautiful sight to see. Peo rot all about the suilen weather, and it had its ulks all to itself, for the streets were filled with the clamor of truck and hose cart bells and the stirring strains of a dozen brass bands any nothing of acres of pretty girls all fea-tooned with gay badges which told people that they were "Hope No. 2." Mapezza, No. 5." "Lively No. 6," and all sorts of other cheering things. It was a poor sort of a girl who didn't have at least one of these banners flung to the breeze and fastened to her by a little flashing nickle-plated fireman's hat in lieu of a pin. It was a stirring sight, and one which Yonkers ill not forget in many a day. This particular parade has not been an afery long preparation, but the Yonkers fremen have wanted a parade to which they invite their neighbors for some time back. But they wanted to do the thing up the way it should be done, and that required rather money than it was convenient to lay their more money than it was convenient of a public-spirited citizens came to the front and that little difficulty was overcome. There wasn't much to do then but make their preparations, and this they set about doing with the dash with which they all burning questions of the hour are six hose companies in Yonkers, two ackle all burning questions of the hour. There are sex hose companies in Yonkers, two look and ladder companies, and two engine empanies, and cach one of these companies is an up the river as Hudson, and as far east is New Rochelle, to come and be their guests and let the people see what a fine body of men here was in the volunteer fire companies verywhere. Each company from Yonkors encertained a company from some other place, and what brass bands the visiting companies lidn't bring with them the home companies in the word with the seed of the seed of

It was well toward 2 o'clock when the procession passed the reviewing stand on which besides the Mayor, Board of Aldermen, and Fire Commissioners, were H. R. Hicks, Dr. Valentine Browne, John Pagan, Jr., F. W. Rau, James O'Brien, Thomas Turner, J. G. P. Holden, Joseph F. Daly, Charles Pike, and H. B. Archer. It was a long march, and a tire-some march, through the heavy mud, with the heavier mechines dragging behind, but the men came in at the finish almost as fresh as they set out, though the visitors had appropriated a good deal of Yonkers real estate, which they carried rather ostentatiously on their trousers legs. This didn't intertere with their appetites in any way, however, and after the procession disbanded the visiting firemen were again taken in hand by their hosts and marched off to different places, where banquets were spread for them, and where there were such jovial reunions as only volunteer firemen know how to engineer and enjoy.

Very many of the visitors were presented with bouquets along the line of march, but Oscar Slocum had reason to be about the most conceited of all these, because the bouquet he got came from a beyy of pretty girls who work under him in the Empire Hat Works, and who took this way of teiling him what a handsome and talented man they thought him; and the bouquet wasn't a bouquet either, but a gorgeous speaking trumpet, made of all sorts of beautiful flowers, which Oscar can hang on his wall and brag about and point to with pride.

By 6 o'clock nearly all the visitors were on their way home, but a contingent remained to tell the Yonkers people at the festivities which took place in the evening, what a fine time they had had, and how they are expected to reciprocate the courtesy at an early day.

BIG PRICES FOR POTTER SEATS.

When Mrs. James Brown Potter makes her in her newiplay she will face an audience that will have paid just about as extravagant prices to see her as New Yorkers did to witness the memorable American début of Sarah Bernhardt. Very exceptional prices were realized at the auction sale of seats for the first night, that was held at the Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday afternoon. When Auctioneer John a giant diagram of the auditorium seats, about a dozen ladies were scattered in the or-

64 scattered seats at $10.50 each. These will be occupied by newspaper representatives at the opening night. Jules Montant secured the next choice for $20 a seat, and took four. John Hoey got several for $10.50 each, and Speculator Tyson bought a whole string at $10.50, filling private orders from society people who want to see the début.

The rest of the 500 $10 seats in the orchestra went for an average of $10 each, and Mr. Tyson gobbled up the whole of the first row of the balcony at $3.26 a seat. Another speculator got the two next rows at $3 a seat, and Mr. Canary, one of Mr. Miner's agents, scooped in all that was left at $2 a seat. The sale realized in the aggregate a little over $6,000.

AMUSEMENTS.

Terestas Tun's Second Concert. The second of the Tua concerts, which was given last evening in Chickering Hall with the assistance of an orchestra under Mr. Van der Stucken's direction and of Mr. William H. Sherwood, planist, tended to strengthen the favorable impression made by the young and fascinating violinist on the occasion of her début last Monday night. All the pretty arts and fascinating violinist on the occasion of her début last Monday night. All the pretty arts and wiles which, whether natural or acquired, are equally potent factors in Mile. Tua's success upon the concert stage, were last evening more subservient than before to her purely artistic efforts. She attacked Mendelssohn's concerto, that inspired piece of writing so eminently feminine, tender, graceful, and fit for womanly interpretation, with an evident enthusiasm and sympathetic understanding, carrying its beautiful strains along with a lofty conception and an able facility of execution that suited well the elevated character of the composition. Following this large work came several small and brilliant numbers, in which mere dash and display were the requisites. Mile. Tua excited noisy demonstrations of pleasure from a large audience, for, like Patti, she has bewitching stage manners and a talent for courtesies, bows, smiles, and soft sweet glances, all which are so attractive that applause cannot cease while there is hope of more of these favors being lavished upon her admirers by the happy little artist.

Mile. Tua's playing certainly shows that she is a violinist of much culture and of many gifts. But it would be an injustice as well as an untruth to place her in the front rank of virtuosos. She has already attained so much, and she is still so very young, that it must be hoped an early though merited success, and the fiattery which her charming personality calls out, will not interfere with such serious study as would bring her to the perfection of her noble art.

The bride is a daughter of the late Rev. George B. Reese, a grandniece of Washington Irving, and a niece of Mr. Sutherland. She was dressed in white faille Francaise and crèpe de chine, trimmed with duchesse lace. The skirt was demi-train, the corsage cut out and filled with lace. She carried Cornelia Cook roses and orange blossoms. There were no bridesmaids, but the bride's sister, Miss Frances Irving Reese, acted as maid of honor. She, too, was dressed in white. Mr. Arthur Satterlee, a brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. Sutherland gave the bride away.

The ceremony was performed under the smi-ax-trimmed chandelier in the front parlor. Daylight was excluded, and the gaslight fell on palms and roses everywhere. The groom had hardly kissed the bride, when soft music stole through the rooms from a hidden orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Satterlee will live at Dobbs Ferry.

Comfortable Tenements for the Poor.

Two years ago several wealthy men of this city bought a piece of property in Mulberry Bend, with a view to experimenting in the building of cheap and comview to experimenting in the building of cheap and com-fortable tenement houses. The house which has been put up on this site will be opened in about two weeks. The owners do not expect a return of more than four per-cent on their investment, and on account of the slight profit it has been found difficult to induce men of means to put money into investments of this kind. The propri-eiors of the scheme are conscious that the Mulherry streat tenement is merely a drop in the nucket compared to the needs of the city for tenements which shall be at once comfortable and low priced, and they feel that the only chance to meet the demand hes in the hope of a public loan for that purpose.

The Man Was Brunk and the Company Won, On Dec. 20, 1882, Thomas McKernan claimed that when he attempted to purchase a licket at the Fif-tieth airest station of the Ninth avenue sievated railroad, it was refused, and he was thrown down the stairs road, it was retuent, and he was introduced in the stairs of the local agent, sustaining a compound fracture of the leg. He sued the Manhattan Railway Company in the Superior Court to recoaver $25,000 damages, but upon the trial of the case before Judge O'Gorman and a jury, it was proved that Molfernan was inducated at time, and, while going down stairs, fail over the railing into the street. Averdict was given for the company.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19,-This was a good day for favorites on the Maryland Jockey Club track, three out of five having been successful. In the last race, the steeplechase, a foul was claimed by the jockey of Wheatley, but it was not allowed. Thus far the betting has been slow, and the auction pools seemed to drag heavily. The winners were Eolian, Los Angeles, Swift, Diadem, and Little Fellow. The first race, mile dash, winning penalties nd non-winning and maiden allowances, had fifteen starters. Eolian sold in the pools for the field. The start was good, with Eolian in front, Banner Bearer second, Giendorn third, Armstrong fourth, and the others together. In the turn Armstrong went to the front and ran to the quarter, the backstretch, and to the haif mile, with Banner Bearer close up, in the lower turn the horses closed up, and Kolian, who had fallen back, ran up to third place, in which order the three-quarters was passed. In which order the three-quarters was passed.

OUTBATTED AND OUTFIELDED, BUT THEY BUNCH THEIR HITS.

The League Has Only One More Victory to Get to Win the Series-The Series Becoming One-elded and Interest Beelining. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 .- St. Louis outbatted and outfielded Detroit again to-day, but, nevertheless, the League champions won by getting their few hits well together. King pitched an excellent game for the Browns, and succeeded in striking out nine of the heavy hitters. Conway also pitched effectively. Gleason's one-handed catch of a line fly and Deacon White's great work on third were the only particularly good pieces of fielding work. In the first inning Latham bunted the ball along the third base line, but, thinking that it was foul, he did not run. White, however, waited for the ball to stop rolling, and, as it rolled into fair ground, he gathered it up and threw it to first. Gaffaey declared Latham out, and the spectators gave Arlie the laugh, which seemed to break him up for the remainder of the atternoon. The Browns scored a run in the fourth on successive singles by Comiskey, Foutz, and and Bennett gave Detroit two in the seventh, and Hanion's three-bagger and a wild pitch yielded the last run in the eighth. The score:

Let me tell you another thing. Smith is wanted by at least two other clubs, and unless a good offer is made him he will go with one of them. With Smith at first, Mack at second. Alberts at short, and Laham at third the infield of the Leuisville Club would be one of the strongest in the country. But will they get them 7 is the question now, and I can only say that it will take money, and good money at that.

"You can also rest assured that Guy Hecker will be one of the Louisville Club next year, and will be carried as the alignound man, and there is none better in the country. Three new men will make their appearance, but White and Werrick will be the only two released.

Pitcher Weidman will be with the New York Club next season. Yesterday he came to an agreement with President Day as to satary for next season, and he will sign a contract to day.

President Day of the New York Club went to Boston last night, and will try to get Crain, the pitcher. There is the president of the proposition among the managers for this layer that it is very probable that it will be necessary to run the price up in order to secure him.

The Washingtons are willing to enter the American Association in place of Brooklyn and allow the latter to go into the League. This would be salvantageous to washingtons to gram and the price of the contract of the came with Bailingers that does not now exist. One can easily insaine the rivairy between New York and Brooklyn with the latter in the League, it only remains for Byrne to make the right sort of a proposition to Washington.—Boston Bernid.

seedingly uninteresting one. The volume of any diminution of the better feeling that dement was expressed at the comparative heavi-ness of Reading, since this stock has heretofore been well in the van in any advancing movement. The first place in the market today was really attained by St. Paul. though the speculation was influenced quite as much stocks, in Western Union, and in New England. ome of the advices from Chicago relative to the Granger imbroglio were more hopeful, indicating the possibility of an adjustment of existing differences. It is worth noting that as yet the reduction in rates has not affected the carnings of even the most aggrassive of the new lines. For instance, Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern reports gross earnings for the first week in October only $734 less than last year. It would appear, therefore, that the companies are making up in an increased vol-ume of traffic all they are losing by a lower tween the Northern Pacific Company and its competitors. It is understood that this is simply the result of pledges made at the recent election, which were incidental to the election of the compromise ticket. In the last hour there was a general yielding, which was quite natural in view of the narrow condition of the market and the considerable improvement that has been made from the lowest prices. Neither side in the market showed much aggressiveness.

The production of anthracite coal for the week ending Oct. 15 was 717,929 tons as against 781,012 tons the corresponding week last year, and for the year to date 27.090,319 tons as against 24.656,229 tons last year.

and for the year to date 27.090.319 tons as against 24.656.229 tons last year.

The Executive Committee of the Western Union Telegraph Company adopted resolutions to-day to the effect that it should not be the policy of the company to advance rates except in the cases of 10 and 15 cent rates that were clearly unprofitable. The officers of the company were empowered to make such reductions in rates as would tend to equalize the tariff. Baltimore and Onio rates have been advanced to the schedule of the Western Union.

The National Bank of the Republic of New York has been placed on the list of depositary banks which will be allowed to hold public funds to the amount of $1.100.000 upon the deposit with the United States Treasurer of $1.000.000 in bonds. This increases the number of such banks to five, all of which are in New York city. The only depositary bank outside of this city which has made application to be put on the same footing is the Third National Bank of Cincinnati. The application will undoubtedly be granted. The depositary banks generally are increasing their bond deposits and many outside banks are endeavoring to enter the system. The First National Bank of New York has increased its bond deposit to $750.000.
